The DIMMER VIEW

Salute to Small Business Firms

Lemon Grove's mayor, Jim Dorman, issued a proclamation this week making it "Small-Business Week."

Nearly every business in Lemon Grove and Spring Valley meets the small-business criterion.

Back in 1961 Jimmy Carter requested a small-business aid — specifically for his peanut business, which, at that time, he said needed "financial management."

Carter's concern reflected the need of small business to get the same consideration as does big business and many aid programs. It should also indicate that the President has as deep a respect for small business today as he did before he became the President of the United States.

Small-business is the backbone of the American lifeline. Yet, so many controls are exerted on this group that 80 per cent of all new businesses fail within their first 5 years. Federal giveaway programs should be reduced and aid should be offered to the small business sector. Some of these programs are worldwide and bring only disdain to global regard for the free enterprise system.

The National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) says that 43 percent of our national gross product comes from small-business firms. These firms, however, are in trouble today, according to Brenda Coberly, who with her husband, operates the Mobile Muffler Man shop in Lemon Grove.

"Small businesses," she says, "are vital to the American economy. They are testimony to the independent spirit that got this country started and kept it going for the past 200 years."

To back up Coberly's philosophy, U.S. Senator Alan Cranston has co-sponsored legislation to prod federal regulatory agencies into being more flexible in dealing with small businesses.

Under the measure, the Regulatory Flexibility Act (S 1974), government regulations would be more lenient for small businesses than for large companies. Individuals and small organizations would also benefit from fewer, more simplified procedures.

"The chief aim of the bill is to minimize government regulation of the small business operator, who is least able to bear the costs that regulation often entail," Cranston said.

The bill would require federal regulatory agencies to determine how much it would cost small business to comply with any proposed new regulation before it is issued. "The agencies would then be charged with weighing this economic impact against the economic and social objective to be achieved by the proposed rule to determine whether partial, or perhaps full, exemptions ought to be granted," Cranston said.

Regulations on business are far more onerous on small firms than on large ones.

For one thing, small firms do not have the financial ability to fight back and some of the ridiculous demands made upon them go uncontested.

But that doesn't make the demands proper.

Rewritten Charter is Better

Citizens for Plain (County) Charter Talk (CPTC) implore voters in the June primary to support their fine effort to bring the voluminous County Charter down to a size and with language that permits citizens to understand it.

Approval of the proposal which will be on the ballot as Prop. A would eliminate about 50 per cent of the verbiage and increase understandability of the laws that bind us.

Few people, except those in government bureaus who get paid by the hour, will read the new charter. As a matter of fact, we read only parts of it on a hit-miss basis.

But the changes are welcome. The "whereases" have all but been deleted. And it's so much shorter.

A 25-member citizens' committee appointed by the Board of Supervisors spent 4,000 hours since April 1977 doing the job. Plain Talk Charter has cut legalese, contradictions and out of date portions. 14,000 words were reduced to 6,800 — and they are more understandable.

For example, Article 3, regarding the general powers of the Board of Supervisors, took up 113 lines of exposition in the original form, is reduced to 60 lines in Plain Talk.

In Article 6, 173 lines became 87 — and they were more understandable.

We recall that President Carter, early on, promised a better understanding of federal edicts but so far he hasn't been able to deliver an example of his determination as explicitly as this.

Citizens for a Plain Talk Charter does locally what Carter has been unable to accomplish nationally. CPTC should be supported.

And it doesn't cost the taxpayer anything!

Mission Cable Service Outage Probed by Police

Equipment damage caused an interruption of Cable service to Mission Cable TV's 162,000 subscribers for approximately one hour on Monday, April 24, Bruce Ellis, the firm's vice president said.

The company's entire service area was affected by the outage which occurred at 11:05 a.m.

An emergency generator was activated Sunday evening around 9 p.m. when a utility pole, cable and power lines were severed, causing a total power loss to the company's headend equipment, according to Jerry Bahr, chief engineer.

By 11 a.m., Monday, the generator had overheated causing the loss of service. Bahr said a backup generator restored service to subscribers by 12:10 p.m. and the damaged utility pole, cable and power lines were repaired by 5 p.m.

The equipment sabotage damage amounted to $5,000 and the cause is currently under police investigation.

As a result of the incident, Bahr stated that tighter security measures are being taken by the company and include the installation of a 24-hour alarm system that will immediately notify dispatch personnel, should any tampering of equipment occur.

L.G. Councilman 'Confident' in Race for Sheriff

Jack Doherty, one of 5 candidates seeking to unseat Sheriff John Duffy, said this week that he is "confident" that he will survive the primary election in June.

He said he expected the Duffy-Doherty ratio to be somewhere between 47%-25% and 37%-33% favoring the incumbent.

"If it is the latter I will need to convert only 2% of the incumbent's supporters to my side," he said. "He would be in deep trouble."

"If it is the former, I will have my work cut out for me," he said.

"It is just a matter of the difference between us in the June primary. That's when the real election starts."

In addition to Duffy and Doherty, other candidates are Bob "Silent Worker" Ensor Jr., a retired businessman; Gregg Petersen, an attorney; Bob Trebes, criminal justice student, and Andre Corbier, police and private investigator.

Doherty is a Lemon Grove councilman and S.D. Police Officer.

Two candidates with the highest total votes in the primary run off in the general election — provided that one does not get more than 50 percent of the votes.

Girls-Pony Setup Brings Morals Charge

Deputy district attorneys said she was "using persons for immoral purposes". Sheriff's deputies said she was using ponies as a part of a prostitution operation.

These charges were lodged against Donna N. Thomas, 33, who operates the Rompin'-Stompin' Pony Ranch at 1221 Sweetwater rd., Spring Valley. The girls were placed in Juvenile Hall.

Sheriff's men alleged that she used two 17-year old girls to encourage pony sales when male prospective purchasers showed up. The girls were 16 years old when the operation commenced, it was said.

Arraignment for the women will be in El Cajon Municipal Court, the DA's Department said.

$250 Million Given In Disaster Relief

Some 31,000 individuals in 14 California counties have filed claims for federal disaster assistance during the two and a half months the program has been in existence.

According to Federal Coordinating Officer Robert C. Stevens and state coordinating officer Jim Haigwood, the assistance given as a result of the February through March storms could exceed $250 million.

Some 1,598 claims have come to state and federal disaster officials from residents in San Diego County.

As expected, the highest number of claims came from Los Angeles County, the most populated area in California.

On Wednesday, public information phones for those seeking disaster claims will cease operations.

Those wishing to claim disaster relief from the storms may call 1-800-252-9364 (toll free) through May 12.

$40 Million Spent For Unemployment Pay

The state Employment Development Department has spent some $40 million to unemployed workers during the month of March.

The EDD reports more than 3,000 more claims were filed in March of this year than in the same month in 1977.

Five Named to First LG Plan Commission

Warren Buckner, member of the board of directors of the Helix Water District, became the first ever member of the first planning commission of the City of Lemon Grove when city council confirmed the nominations of five who had passed a rigorous screening by city staff.

With Buckner, who headed the list by virtue of the alphabetical confirmation process, were Ben Ala, an aerospace engineer; Lois Heiserman, a retired business woman; board member of the EPIC and of the Nutrition Center; Joe Hobbs, surveyor for San Diego County, and John Stenback, a Lemon Grove realtor.

Buckner, a retired aerospace engineer, is also a former school board member where he served for 20 years.

All have been requested to sign proper financial disclosure agreements together with financial documents on or before Friday (10 days prior to appointment) so that a formal appointment may be made at the council meeting of May 15.

Members will oversee all matters pertaining to land use. At present most residential parcels in the city are designated R-1 on an interim basis. The commission will be responsible for approving or rejecting special use and zone variance requests. The group will develop a city general plan.

Members will serve 3 years on a staggered basis.

Mayor Dorman said that a nod of appreciation should be given the 22 other applicants who filed for the assignment.

Most of the applicants were highly qualified and could have served well on the planning commission, he said.

Council agreed to study a proposal by the San Diego County Sheriff by which traffic control as well as police sources would be provided by the Department. The level of service will be greater than at present, appeared to be the thinking of the group Monday night.

Sheriff's Captain George Dodson noted that the level which seemed to satisfy council members would provide the best service with the fastest response time of any county city now under contract.

"We have 5 deputies in traffic school now and these men will be able to serve both as crime suppression and traffic."

L.G. Receives $59,698 In State Tax Refunds

A total of $59,698 in April taxes was returned to the City of Lemon Grove last week, the State Office of the Controller announced.

The amount, consisting of cigarette taxes, "in lieu" motor vehicle license fees and highway users taxes, is part of the $105,858,414 distributed to California cities and counties last month.

$18,303 of Lemon Grove's total was in highway users taxes, money that is primarily derived from gasoline and diesel fuel taxes.

While cigarette taxes refunds amounted to $5,086, state-collected "in lieu" motor vehicle license fee refunds represented the biggest part of Lemon Grove's redistribution share with $36,309.

"In lieu" fees take the place of local property taxes on motor vehicles and are excised at the rate of $2 per $100 of market value.

Season Rain Total Climbs

Two light rain showers during the past few days raised the season's record rainfall total to 26.38 for the season.

April 25th a light shower brought .02 and on May 1 .08. Rainfall seasons ends June 30.

The 5 who will be regularly assigned here to traffic work are already taking on their chores with enthusiasm. We have not worked traffic energetically until now," he said. "That has been handled by the California Highway Patrol mostly. Where we issued about 15 citations a week before we chose the city traffic detail, we now issue about 90."

The 1978-1979 sheriff's contract will cost $384,000-$411,387 based on Monday night's discussions. It would provide 5 units around-the-clock and 3 units 16 hours a day.

Council learned that its membership in the League of California Cities carried a price tag of $4,236 in addition to other membership costs. The new bill goes for a League building to be constructed in Sacramento.

Council unanimously declined an invitation to become a member of the S.D. Regional Water Reclamation Agency.

Food Stamp Rejects Overruled by Court

A recent federal court decision helps food stamps applicants who have been turned down to claim food stamps retroactively.

In Aitken vs. USDA (United States Department of Agriculture) the Sacramento federal district court struck down USDA instructions which caused denial or delay in the issuance of food stamps by county welfare departments in California.

Food stamp applicants who did not receive food stamps the same day or month they applied for them, or those who had a monthly income of $90 or less and were turned down or discouraged may now direct their retroactive claims to county welfare departments and refer to the court decision in their appeal.

FATHER KENNETH JOHNSON (right) of St. Philips Church of Lemon Grove has been elected as president of the Lemon Grove Lions Club. He takes over the Lion's Club leadership from Lion's President William White.

LG Pawn Shop Owner Jailed On Stolen Property Charge

A task force of 16 detectives, following up on an investigation begun February 1 by the Sheriff's Fence Detail, raided Simon's Pawn Shop, 7771 Broadway, Lemon Grove, late Wednesday last week and confiscated a large quantity of allegedly stolen property.

The owner-operator Norman Julian Bartell, 43, of 6556 Bonnie View dr., San Diego, was arrested on charges of receiving stolen property, attempts to receive stolen property, possession of items with the serial numbers removed, and conducting a business in a fraudulent manner.

A clerk, Bernice Doreen Conway, 47, of 1412 Monserate ave., Chula Vista, was cited on the latter charge and released.

Deputy Ken Dalton of the Sheriff's Fence Detail, who began the investigation, also confiscated the business license, effectively closing the business.

Assisting in serving the search warrant and inventorying the property were four deputy sheriffs from the fence detail, six detectives from the sheriff's Lemon Grove station, and two each

PSA, AA Pool Services

Pacific Southwest Airlines (PSA) has reached an agreement to interline with American Airlines which is designed to facilitate the combined use of both airlines.

Under the agreement PSA will be able to provide reservations, ticketing and baggage service to passengers using both PSA and American. Until December 1977, when President Carter signed a pertinent piece of legislation, such agreements were forbidden by law. A 5 per cent revenue increase for PSA is expected to result from the agreement.

Brown Taxes Vs Jarvis-Gann Says Ken Maddy

Republican gubernatorial candidate Ken Maddy this week criticized Governor Brown for pushing new taxes as the answer to the Jarvis tax initiative.

"He ought to be looking for places to cut state spending so new taxes won't be needed," said Maddy. "He is not getting the message in Jarvis. It's not just property taxes that are high, it's all taxes, and people don't want any of them increased."

"Once again, Brown has proven he won't listen to the people. He didn't listen to the death penalty, he didn't listen on nuclear power, he didn't listen on the farm worker initiative two years ago, and he's not listening now."

"Jerry Brown still believes that he and his appointed friends in office know what's better for California than Californians. I believe that kind of arrogance and contempt for the public is unacceptable in a governor."

"My position on Jarvis remains unchanged. But as Governor, I would act on the people's message and cut taxes rather than raise taxes," Maddy said.

Brown was quoted as saying at an appearance in Bakersfield Monday that a combination of new state and local taxes would be needed to offset the loss of revenue caused by passage of Prop. 13.

Brown reportedly said that the state would probably not react significantly to passage of Jarvis until after the November election.

"I guess by that he means until after he's safely in office," Maddy said.

There's An Answer

By Mr. and Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale

Blows His Top

Q. What causes me to become so enraged whenever I find out that my teenage daughter and my wife have lied to me or excluded me from conversation?

The same thing occurs every time they disagree with me, don't do as I suggest they do, or even when I become tense. I get so angry I curse and blow my top till I almost bust my vocal chords.

I make them cry quite often, which in turn makes me feel like I've destroyed all the love and respect they once had for me.

I really love them and live with a constant fear that something bad might happen to those closest to me. But I know my harshness and cruel behavior do more damage to my loved ones than physical harm. Can you please help me?

A. You are quite right that your ungovernable temper can damage loved ones and destroy your happiness. The solution is very simple. Learn to control yourself. You do not need to become enraged. Cool it. Take charge of yourself. Curb your anger.

Practice and master mental and emotional thought control. You can govern your temper if you make up your mind that you want to do so. Then do it. If you don't you are headed for real unhappiness.

We have a booklet, "Self-Improvement Handbook," which has helped others with problems such as yours, and a copy of it is on its way to you. Anyone wishing a free copy may write to us in care of Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

Embarrassed Grandmother

Q. My best friend's 19-year-old granddaughter is pregnant. The man responsible doesn't want her in marriage. The family is heartsick.

How do I respond to the situation?

I can't send the family a sympathy card, nor the girl a get-well card. I'll be embarrassed when I meet them.

Now, I find out that my own 18-year-old granddaughter is in the same predicament. It simply makes me hurt all over. I don't know how to treat her, either.

If I accept her as though everything was fine and dandy will my other grandchildren think it's all right to have sex outside of marriage?

A. In a situation such as you describe, your personal embarrassment is a matter of minor consideration. The main problem centers around your friend's granddaughter and your own granddaughter.

Our suggestion is not to be soft with the girl, certainly not to act as if everything was fine and dandy. But don't withdraw your love from her. And certainly do not minimize her wrong actions to the other grandchildren. Try loving her back into a right life pattern.

Wants to Make Him Happy

Q. My husband left town with a younger woman without telling me or any of the family. After a few months he wanted and did come back. But now he says he must see the other woman again.

We have had a full and happy 25 years of marriage with four children who have never been in trouble.

There have been some pretty hard financial times and some tough illnesses, but we always had each other and lots of love. Maybe I let him down—with working, the kids, the house and all to do.

Can I make him happy again? I love him so and he has given all of us so much. Is there a trick to bringing a man back?

A. We've got to answer you pretty forthrightly. This wandering husband of yours may have gotten tired of having a wife who was so burdened down that she didn't have time or couldn't take time to be romantic, desirable and, shall we say, sexy.

At the present time he seems to be in a state of vacillation between you and the other woman. That means that he wants you and his family but he also wants something that you don't supply.

If you really want him back, could be you'd better change your priorities and put loving him as number one. That is the trick.

If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

'Butterflies' Is 'Enchanting and Sentimental'

By Ardis McCullough

After a couple of attempts we finally made that visit to the Fiesta Dinner Theatre in Spring Valley and were delighted throughout the evening.

The electricity of anticipation hung in the air while the three-entree buffet was offered prior to play, "Butterflies Are Free." It was an enchanting love story, freely sentimental, yet amusing.

Leonard Gershe's story was sensitively portrayed by Gary Tomlin, Kathleen Brown, Marie Moneen and Tom Lagrua as they brought characters to life. The audience-actor rapport was at a high level throughout the performance.

I was touched by the blind young man on crutches, Gary Tomlin, who falls in love with a 19-year old free spirit, Kathleen Brown, who butterflyishly lights on him. This affair is resisted by the man's mother, Marie Moneen, who insists on protecting her son from his blindness. Tom Lagrua brings rising action to a climax. You'll have to see for yourself what the denouement brings.

"Butterflies Are Free" will be playing through May 21, Tuesdays through Sundays and Wednesday matinees.

The musical comedy, "I Do, I Do" will begin May 24.

May Marked as Goodwill Month

"Goodwill — For the Love of People" is this year's theme for Goodwill month.

Allen J. Sutherland, President of San Diego County Goodwill Industries, announced that the week of May 8-12 has been set aside for individual or group tours of Goodwill's main plant at 402 5th ave. in San Diego, 10-3 p.m. each day.

Urging public participation in the tours, Sutherland pointed out that internationally, Goodwill maintains 165 rehabilitation facilities in the United States and 33 affiliates in 22 other countries.

He also said that U. S. Labor Department studies show Goodwill currently serves more than 40 percent of all handicapped people in rehabilitation programs nationwide.

Sutherland said San Diego's Goodwill is totally unique in the nation, in that it does not solicit financial donations. "We rely totally on the goodwill of San Diego County citizens in providing us with repairable items, especially clothing, shoes and small household items. Of course, we are also grateful for all the purchases San Diego people make at our seven retail stores," he said.

"Goodwill in San Diego County paid $745,727 in wages and services last year to physically and emotionally handicapped workers," he said, "and in the same time period, Goodwill purchased $479,171 in supplies and services locally."

Eugene Morrill, Executive Director of San Diego's Goodwill, said that "due to heavy public support of disaster relief in neighboring countries, discarded items given to Goodwill such as clothing and shoes are down just over 30 percent from a year ago." He also stated that "there is a special need for those items now in order to provide continuing work for handicapped clients."

HOME-COOKED This Week's RECIPE

Beef Enchilada Strata

This week, the Mexican people will celebrate the 126th anniversary of the 1862 military victory of the Mexican army over the invading French, a victory now known as Cinco de Mayo or the Fifth of May.

To commemorate this event, offered is Beef Enchilada Strata — corn tortillas stacked with a layer of filling and cheese.

- Beef Enchilada Strata
- 1 pound lean ground beef
  - 1 medium onion, chopped
  - 1 garlic clove, crushed
  - 1 can (10 oz.) enchilada sauce
  - 1 can diced green chiles
  - ½ teaspoon salt
  - ½ teaspoon oregano
  - 10 corn tortillas
  - oil
  - 1 cup (4 ozs.) shredded cheddar cheese
  - sour cream, optional

In a large skillet, cook ground beef, onion and garlic until beef is lightly browned. Break beef apart with fork to allow even browning. Add enchilada sauce, reserving ¼ cup. Stir in green chiles, salt and oregano.

Cook uncovered, over medium heat for 15 minutes to blend flavors.

Stir occasionally; spoon off excess grease, if necessary.

Family Improvement in 'Marriage Week'

The week of May 7-13 has been declared "Marriage and Family Week" by the Joint Rules Committee of the California Senate and Assembly.

The far-spread dissolution of marriages has prompted the Committee to set this week aside "to educate and inform the general public in regard to diverse programs and facilities, both public and private, available to counsel and assist families in the maintenance of the family unit and the resolution of family problems."

The problem of marriage dissolutions has also caused President Carter to call for a conference December 9-13, in order to help stimulate a national discussion on the state of American families.

Dr. Burgues Exhibits His Porcelain in L.J.

By Susanne Williams

Porcelain is a medium rarely thought of in connection with sculpture: marble and bronze — yes. But porcelain?

Yes, porcelain, at least for Dr. Irving Carl Burgues and Carol Werner Burgues, his wife. For years, the couple has used this powder-like substance to transform it into delicately-shaped figurines of animals and flowers.

Examples of these true-to-life hibiscuses, orchids and birds are presently on exhibit (and for sale) at Guddies', 7840 Girard ave., La Jolla, where Dr. Burgues introduced them last week.

Burgues pieces are sought-after treasures for prominent collectors. Figurines have been presented as state gifts to Mao-Tse Tung, Austrian Chancellor Kreisky, Queen Fabiola of Belgium and others.

So far, the editions are limited to the recreation of animals and flowers, although a series of human figurines is planned. Some of the porcelain birds are Dr. Burgues' "patients", injured animals he had found and nursed back to health.

Dr. Burgues, incidentally, is a dentist. His father, who, true to the spirit of time, had considered artists Bohemians and possibly worse, had wanted his son to become a dentist — and Dr. Burgues obliged. Only after his medical studies did he entirely devote his life to art.

Trained in the traditional techniques of painting and sculpturing at the Academy of Fine Arts in Vienna, Dr. Burgues has found his ultimate artistic expression in capturing in porcelain "the frozen moments of life", a process requiring skill and experience.

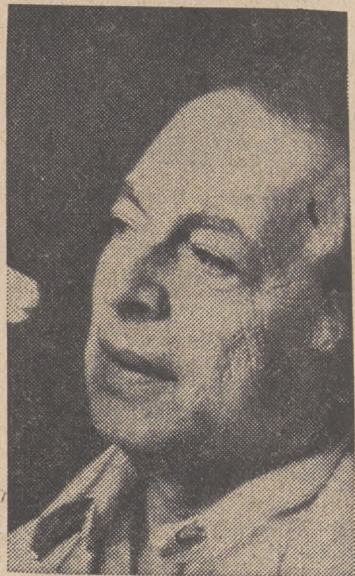

Extensive studies in botanics and anatomy precede the first creations in clay, used as models for composition and size. Final sculptures are then shaped in porcelain, baked at high temperatures in gas or electric kilns, from where they emerge as bisques, uncolored, unglazed porcelain pieces.

Applying color is the final, yet time-consuming step. Powdered metals are carefully applied, reapplied and baked at varying degrees from 1800° F downward. Only repeated applications will guarantee the translucence and exquisite coloring sought in fine porcelain pieces.

"The attrition rate is about 50%," Dr. Burgues said. Gas forming within the hollow figurines and overbaking of colors can ruin the most carefully planned creative effort.

The Burgueses had to learn these techniques from scratch. In their attempts "by trial and error" they were guided along by a former Meissen company chemist, himself an emigrant just like the Burgueses.

A native of Austria, Dr. Burgues had left his country to study in Paris and Italy. A commission to paint murals in a Rio de Janeiro church brought him and fellow artists to Brazil — and from there to the United States.

"I love this country," he said. So does his German-born wife with whom he has found a new home in New Jersey. Their modest beginnings have blossomed over the years into a prospering company with more than 40 artisans.

Park Use Free Sunday

Day-use entry to most California state parks, beaches and recreation areas, including state historic parks and museums, will be free Sunday, State Park Golden Anniversary Observation Day.

The free day use does not apply to boat launching, off-road vehicle use and other special uses for which extra fees are charged. Also exempted from the free day use are the Hearst Castle and state park units operated by private concessionaires.

E. County 'Walk' For Medical Aid

Project Concern's Walk for Mankind will be held on June 3rd in the East County and at 6 other locations in the county including Coronado, Mission Bay, Poway, San Diego/ Del Mar, South Bay and Tri-City (Oceanside, Vista, Carlsbad).

East County's annual kickoff dinner was held recently to acquaint local students and ASB advisors with plans for the Walk. Food was donated by local merchants and was served by the El Cajon Junior Women's Club.

The Junior women will man a checkpoint along the walk route.

Walk for Mankind is a national fundraising effort on behalf of the international medical aid programs of Project Concern. There are nearly 38 medical and dental clinics and hospitals in the U. S. and 5 other countries in which Project Concern, headquartered in San Diego, treat nearly 1.5 million sick and needy people each year.

Volunteer walkers are sponsored by friends, neighbors and other contributors who agree to donate a predetermined amount of money for each kilometer that is walked. Each of the walks cover 30 kilometers.

Stocks Return Saturday to South Bay Track

Poway's Tom Hicks returned to South Bay Park Speedway 117 with a bang and he'll try to repeat his winning performance again Saturday night when the super stocks return to action.

Gates open at 6 p.m. with trials scheduled for 6:30 for both the super and street stockers. The first of two trophy dashes starts at 8 p.m.

Hicks, a 25-year-old sprinkler fitter, campaigned his 1965 Mustang at Cajon Speedway last season and has elected to return to the quarter-mile dirt at South Bay this year. And what a return. He set fast time, moved up through the pack in the 30-lap feature to finally catch pace-setting Perry McNeil of Tijuana.

It will be the third night of action for the streeters, having competed again last week on the midget auto program. Norb Wolf, Walt Adney, Russ Robeson, Ed Vestal and H. D. Jackson will lead that parade.

TAKE FIVE

by John E. Wirges

The San Diego Press Club, a nomadic tribe of wandering free spirits who take life as it comes, drink their whiskey straight, hard and often and always stand ready to defend the working girl, will tee up in their annual golf-playing, blood-letting and tall-tale-telling tourney Saturday at Stardust.

And ain't that gonna be a day that stretches the truth and examines, in depth of course, the Chargers draft, the Padres play, the Sockers attendance, the quality of life in the workshops of several newspapers, government establishments, big businesses and a horde of television stations.

And this bunch isn't going to let the past get away. Enough old timers are present and presumably prepared to play and pepper the conversation with past disorders and deeds of misconduct that hardly a soul or sinner will escape the babble of our vocal review.

The best thing to be said of the day's doings is that the entire playing affair is a male happening. No females, ladies or other non-male persuasions are listed for a tee time.

That doesn't mean that beauty will be absent. Not hardly. How on earth could a group of men get along without some female running the show.

Cathy Bliss, the Press Club manager, will be there to herd us into our proper starting rotation and get us off on time.

But then it's up to us to carry on in the truest manner of solid swingers the world has come to know as the Press Corps.

Bob Babich, of the Cleveland Browns by way of the San Diego Chargers, is guilty of basic honesty and a not likely winner. He forgot a basic press corps rule question with a question.

When asked his handicap, Babich quickly replied, "Six." And even the most unskilled of wordsmiths knows enough to hedge a little and respond to such a question with a question.

Babich should have asked, "Where?" Or "On what kind of course?" Or "What time of day?"

But he didn't and he's stuck with the lowest handicap of the tourney. A six. A real, bonafide, undressed six.

Hal Clement doesn't have that problem. Hal, the sports guy on Channel-10, is quick enough on his feet to mentally add 10 strokes to his game and quickly answer "14" when asked his marker.

Norrie West, the moving force behind the Andy Williams-San Diego Open and the San Diego County Junior Golf Program, is a man of rare honesty in his own tournaments.

He's also the proprietor of the Greater Gutay Open and the handicaps he assigns in that teeing test are some of the most severe in the game.

But, Norrie is an old newspaper man and took a 14 into himself for the Press Club Golf Function.

Union Editor Jerry Warren did an honorable thing and claimed coverage under Calloway, a handicapping system where it seems only the score-keepers win. That old movie critic James Meade, PR Man Ralph Tremblay, City Employee Jess Haro, and play everyday Sonny Bjorseth also took the Calloway.

Charlie Sick, the oldest living junior golfer in San Diego County, added 10 and claimed a 16 stroke advantage. Frank Macomber, who was playing golf here before the war (World War I) had the guts to claim a 16 and Jack Cooper, Union Photo Editor, didn't even blink an eye when he took a 24.

And if the lies precede the tournament, you can imagine how the lies will improve after the 12:22 tee off time. It ought to be a great tourney. Wish you were here.

Season's First Corrida In Tj's Downtown Bullring

The Tijuana bullfight season starts Sunday with a cartel of art and dancing in the downtown area, El Toreo de Tijuana.

There, beginning at 4 p.m., ace matadors Manolo Martinez and Antonio Lomelin, along with a promising newcomer, David Silveti, will each face two bulls of the highly respected Reyes Huerta ranch.

Because of the prestigious program and the fact that Mexico's Cinco de Mayo celebration will be in progress, a capacity crowd is expected in the 14,000-seat building.

The second corrida will be on Memorial Day weekend, May 28, also in the downtown arena. Novice events are scheduled for June. The major season resumes on July 2 with a bullfight each Sunday at 4 p.m. through September 17. The second half of the season will be staged in the bullring by the sea, Plaza Monumental de Tijuana.

This will be the 41st season for formal corridas in Tijuana, although bullfights of various categories have been performed there since at least 1887.

Promoters have signed all of Mexico's leading toreros except Miguel Espinosa (Armillita Chico) and Carlos Arruza, Jr., who are fighting in Spain and Portugal, respectively.

Non-Explanation

The word utopia comes from the Greek "u" meaning "not" and "topia" meaning "place." It means something that doesn't exist.

Padres Limp Home Tues. For 9-Game Homestand

The friendly confines of San Diego Stadium may never look more inviting to the San Diego Padres than it will Tuesday when the club returns home from its longest road trip of the 1978 National League campaign.

The Padres must first, however, conclude their 12-game, four-city swing through the eastern part of the country by taking on the St. Louis Cardinals in the Missouri city Friday through Sunday. All three dates are set for single affairs with the finale on Sunday scheduled to be televised live back to San Diego on XETV (Channel 6) beginning at 11:15 a.m.

As usual, regular Padre announcers Jerry Coleman and Dave Campbell will handle the play-by-play with assistance from Jerry Gross.

After the trio of encounters with the Cardinals the Padres will enjoy a day off on Monday, before opening up their second homestand of the season which will feature nine games against members of the National League's Eastern Division beginning with the Chicago Cubs on Tuesday.

Friars to Host S.F., Anaheim In Net Games

Virginia Wade, last summer's Wimbledon princess, asked for and received a change of venue from New York to Oakland for this WTT season. She arrives tonight for a 7:30 game in the Sports Arena to face a San Diego Friars team which considers Wade and her Golden Gators the team to beat for western division honors.

On Saturday, the Friars will entertain Anaheim and it'll be 25 cent Beer Night. Of course, there figures to be as much foam on the court as there is in the cups because Anaheim, a first-year team, possesses the Friars' former player-coach Cliff Drysdale.

Furthermore, with Francoise Durr, Rosie Casals, Kathy Hunter and Mark Cox, Anaheim presents a tough top-to-bottom lineup and one that is not easily cracked.

But San Diego coach Rod Laver, no doubt recognizing the significance of his meeting with Drysdale, has the argument with Wade and Company foremost in his attention.

City College Has 'Day'

The fourth annual San Diego City College Community Day will be held 10 a.m. - 2 p.m., Wednesday.

Members of the community are invited to tour the campus and learn about the role it plays in San Diego. Entertainment, including drawings for gifts, will be provided.

Chargers Highlight Film Now Available

"Great Expectations," the highlights film of the San Diego Chargers' 1977 season will be available to groups for the remainder of the year.

The film, chronicling an exciting season in which the Chargers reached the 500 mark in won-lost percentage for the first time since 1969 and proved their competitive ability against the outstanding teams in football, was written and directed by David Plaut.

"Great Expectations" is the title of a novel written by Charles Dickens in 1861. A movie of the same name was released in 1947 by Cineguild Productions Ltd. and starred Alec Guinness, Jean Simmons, Finlay Currie, and Anthony Wagner. The story is of a young boy who is the recipient of unexpected gifts from a mysterious benefactor as the youth grows into adulthood.

There are no mysterious benefactors in the NFL, but the Chargers grew to adulthood last season and their expectations in 1978 are to compete for the American Football Conference's Western Division championship.

Youth Keynotes Camel Pro Series

GARDENA—Ted Boody of Lansing, Michigan, No. 3 finisher in the American Motorcyclist Assn. Camel Pro Series last season, visits Ascot Park for the finale of the Spring Bates Pro Series Friday at 8 p.m. with an eye on two big West Coast dates.

The youngest rider ever to win an AMA national when he was 17 in 1976, he's trying to wrest the grand national crown this year from his Harley-Davidson factory teammate, 21-year-old Jay Springsteen.

To get into the 1978 fight, Boody needs big finishes in the San Jose mile, Sunday, and the "Spring Inaugural" AMA half-mile at Ascot, Saturday night, May 13.

Boody can't quite duplicate the feat of being crowned No. 1 in AMA before his 20th birthday as Springsteen was in 1976, the first year of his reign. However, Ted could be close. He won't be 20 until September 11, and the final race is September 30.

The asset of youth has been a big factor in the last five AMA Championship seasons. Kenny Roberts clinched the title in 1973 before his 22nd birthday and repeated the next year. Gary Scott was 23 in his big year of 1975, then came Springsteen at 19 in 1976 and 20 in 1977.

Springsteen, Scott, and Steve Eklund, 22, of San Jose, the 1978 point leader, are generally considered to be Boody's chief rivals in 1977, but he has to be wary of Alex Jorgensen of Stockton. Jorgensen, astride a Norton, has won everything but a national at Ascot and did have seconds in Camel events in Gardena in 1976 and 1977.

Jorgensen will be Boody's main competition this Friday night as Alex tries to clinch first-place money in the Bates series. There are also points at stake for positions in the novice and junior invitationals to be held in conjunction with the May 13 national.

Outdoors & Travel

By E. L. "Buck" Rogers

If you'd like to take an Amazon safari, but don't care to swat mosquitos, sleep in a hammock, or worry about 30-foot anacondas, I've got a suggestion.

The Napo River cruise is for you.

This river rises in the Andean slopes of Ecuador and flows southward to its confluence with the Amazon 4000 miles away. This is the route Francisco Orellana took in 1540 when he discovered the Amazon River, and it is the same one used by a big river cruiser operating there today. The Orellana actually resembles a motor boat more than it does a boat. It is 131 feet long, weighs 180 tons, and is powered with huge stern-drive diesels designed especially for these waters. A total of 54 guests can be accommodated in modern staterooms. Other features include a dining room, lounge, kitchen, crew quarters, bar, and big sun deck.

Drag Race Stars On TV 6 Sat.

Young drag racing stars Dale Pulde of Van Nuys and Billy Meyer of Waco will be challenging the supremacy of champions Don Prudhomme and Gordie Bonin for Funny Cars honors in coverage of the National Hot Rod Assn.'s Ga-tornationals drag races televised Saturday on XETV-6 at 11 a.m.

At age 27, Pulde is a veteran of the funny car ranks but has never captured an NHRA championship event despite holding the national speed record of 245.23 miles per hour.

Meyer, the youngest driver to win a funny car title in NHRA competition at 23, will be debuting his new Plymouth Arrow funny car at the $290,650 event.

Leading entries in the Top Fuel dragster lineup include Kelly Brown, Don Garlits and Marvin Graham.

Holiday Bowl OK'd for S.D.

San Diego will host the first annual Holiday Bowl football game in December, 1978. The game will feature the champion of the Western Athletic Conference (WAC) against a major national college team.

The National Collegiate Association (NCAA) Council approved a recommendation of the NCAA Extra Events Committee to certify the new Bowl Game.

The game brings added significance to S.D. State U., which will be the liaison school for the event. SDSU will officially become a member of the WAC on July 1, and the first year conference school will be attempting to become the WAC's first representative in the initial Holiday Bowl.

"It's really gratifying to know that after a year's work we can proceed with the Holiday Bowl," said Executive Director Les Land. "The tremendous support we received from the entire San Diego community has made this event possible."

"We're delighted that we are going to play this year and we are thrilled at the decision," said Bowl Assn. President Vinnie Vinson.

Commissioner of the WAC, Stan Bates, expressed his pleasure over the announcement from the NCAA.

"Speaking for the entire conference, we are extremely happy to have the continued opportunity to exhibit to the nation the caliber of WAC football via the Holiday Bowl. The people of San Diego city, county, and at San Diego State University, our newest member, are to be congratulated on their hard work in obtaining NCAA certification," Bates said.

"We have a growing conference, San Diego State will make a fine addition beginning with the 1978-79 academic year and we have no doubt the football fans of Southern California will support the Bowl both through direct volunteer work with the Bowl Committee and through the purchase of tickets," he said.

No official date for the game has been selected, however, the game will be played between December 22 and December 28.

The official charities for the Holiday Bowl are the Institute for Burn Medicine and the San Diego Children's Hospital and Health Center.

During four- and five-day cruises guests frequently get opportunities to prowl jungle trails and observe the fauna and flora of a tropical rain forest. They paddle across jungle lakes in dugout canoes and visit Indian villages and river settlements. At one location, they motor up a narrow vine-draped stream and then silently float back down, observing and photographing the bird and animal life that abounds here. All shore expeditions are led by trained nature guides who also give lectures and conduct evening discussion sessions aboard ship.

This Napo cruise operates in the former habitat of the Aucas, one of the most savage head-hunting tribes in the Amazon basin. But, these people gave up their quaint craft a number of years ago and now are as peaceful and law-abiding as the tourists who come to visit them. A good shrunken head is as difficult to come by in these parts now as an honest politician is up here.

This adventure is both comfortable and safe. The food is good and plentiful. There's plenty of ice for martinis and rum punches. Days are hot, but the nights are cool enough for sleeping comfort. You won't see a snake on the entire trip, but you may catch a piranha or two, be taunted by troops of chattering monkeys, and see lots of colorful tropic birds. For the naturalist, or person who desires a different sort of vacation, this Amazon cruise is recommended.

As mentioned earlier, a choice of four- and five-day itineraries are available and they are priced at $250 and $310 respectively. Jumping-off spot for this excursion is Quito, capital of Ecuador and worth several days of sightseeing before or after the jungle jaunt. Quito is reached daily from the U. S. by Braniff International which can also provide full information and arrange reservations.

Golden Gate Handicap Is HollyPark Feature

Bad 'N Big, winner of the Golden Gate Handicap and runner-up to Star Spangled in a division of the recent Inglewood Handicap, heads a group of proven stakes performers expected to go postward Sunday at Hollywood Park in the $50,000 Caballero Handicap.

The weekend program will get into gear Saturday when Eximious, Equanimity and B. Thoughtful draw the spotlight to a gathering of top-rated three-year-old fillies in the $40,000 Railbird Stakes.

Railbird Day also will be Kentucky Derby Sweepstakes Day at Hollypark, with the Inglewood track offering $15,000 to lucky patrons. The annual contest coincides with the Run for the Roses at Churchill Downs and a track-side drawing will be held at 12:30 p.m., with each Derby starter to be represented by someone at Hollywood Park.

The Derby will be televised live over the track's many closed circuit monitors and the person whose name is drawn for the winner will collect $10,000.

Coliseum Card Lists 26 Rounds Of Pro Boxing

Five bouts that promises unusual action are scheduled at the S.D. Coliseum Friday night when the first of 26 rounds gets under way at 8:15.

Rickey Weigel, a Pasadena junior middleweight, meets Steve Bentley of L.A. in an 8-rounder. Weigel, in previous bouts here, has been popular with fight aficionados. He won a 6-round unanimous decision over Troy Vaughn last week.

Another popular scrapper, Mike "Little Animal" Rudell, a welterweight mixer, who has chosen S.D. for his home, is matched in a 4-rounder with Ron Turner of L.A. Rudell's free-swinging style has attracted a following here.

Jim Ingram, a Long Beach light-heavyweight, who won his last two starts at the Coliseum, faces Hector Torres of S.D. in a 6-rounder. He came to the Coliseum last week and defeated King David Smith of L.A.

Another light-heavy scrap has Gary Pitman of L.A. facing Clinton Campbell of San Bernardino. It's scheduled for 4.

Junior-middleweights Mike Hickman of S.D. is booked with Hector Fernandez of Tijuana in the last of the 4-rounders.

The Coliseum is at 15th and E sts. in downtown San Diego.

Brown Field Airshow To Benefit Museum

The city of San Diego gave a green light for take off of an Air Show at Brown Field for the benefit of the Aerospace Museum and International Hall of Fame Recovery Fund.

The Air Show, on Memorial Day weekend, May 27, 28 and 29, is being sponsored by the Combat Pilot's Association as their way of contributing to the Aerospace Recovery Fund.

"We welcome and wholeheartedly approve the Combat Pilot's Association plans to aid us," said "Zeke" Cormier, Executive Director of the Aerospace Recovery Fund.

Jim Luntzel, president of the San Diego Chapter of the Combat Pilot's Assn., said the 3-day show would consist of aerial aerobatics by some of the finest pilots in the country and will include a mock "dogfight" of World War I aircraft.

Vintage aircraft will be parked alongside modern military jet and prop fighters in the static displays, while the visiting public will have the opportunity to participate in "Barnstorming" by riding in an assortment of open cockpit vintage planes.

Profits from the 3-day Air Show will aid in the recovery of the Aerospace Museum and International Aerospace Hall of Fame, both destroyed by fire on February 22, in San Diego's Balboa Park.

Admission to the show will be by voluntary donations with gates opening daily at 9 a.m.

'Champion' Night Puts Five Titles On Line Tuesday

Tuesday is being called "The Night of the Champions" by professional wrestling impresario Danny Millsap who has booked 3 title matches at the S.D. Coliseum.

The first, a ladies tag team title bout lists Ukie Bara and Tami Aoyama, the titleholders, against Sonya Sanchez and Cheri Day, challengers.

A Mexican Death Match is scheduled for the American Heavyweight Title with Moon-dog Mayne taking on Chavo Guerrero. In it, there are no referees, timeout or disqualifications. However, the winner must keep his opponent pinned for 10 seconds.

Then there is an American Tag Team Title match with Roddy Piper and Outlaw Ron Bass defending their title against Terry Sawyer and Hector Guerrero.

The finale is a Handicap Team Match which requires the victors to pin opponents twice in 20 minutes. In it Goliath takes on Alex Perez while Little David grapples with Black Gordan.

First bout starts at 7:30 at the downtown Coliseum, 15th and E sts.

U/Way Says Prop 13 Would Hurt Programs

United Way of San Diego County has formally gone on record opposing Proposition 13 and favoring, instead, voter adoption of Proposition 8 "which would provide property tax relief for home owners and renters while protecting needed social services."

United Way, made up of thousands of donors, is the largest organization in the county based on voluntary citizen commitment and action. It is the central planning and funding organization for more than 70 human care agencies which provide 200 programs and services to the people of San Diego County.

"We agree that property taxes are too high and we have gone on record as favoring tax reduction," Patterson N. Hyndman, United Way president, declared.

"Many essential human needs for social service are dependent, however, on public funds and we see a serious threat to the funding base of the network of both public and private social service should Proposition 13 be adopted," he added.

Hyndman noted that United Way's public affairs committee had studied both Proposition 8 and 13 and recommended approval of Proposition 8. The organization's executive committee affirmed this position, noting that passage of Proposition 13 would threaten child care, counseling, youth development and protective services presently offered by public agencies.

Hyndman stressed that United Way's action was taken

'Junk Food' Target

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has proposed regulations to prohibit the sale of candy, soda water, frozen desserts and chewing gum on school premises until after the last lunch period.

Comments on these proposals, which stem from Public Law 95-166, are welcomed and should be directed to USDA, Food and Nutrition Service, School Programs Division, Washington, D.C. 20250.

William Windom In 'Thurber' at E.C. Arts Center

Emmy award winner William Windom will present his version of "Thurber" at the East County Performing Arts Center on Friday, May 19 at 8 p.m.

Best known for his lead role in television's "My World and Welcome To It," Windom brings that and other stories and fables by James Thurber to the Performing Arts Center in a two-act performance. It reveals what Windom likes to call "the light and dark sides of the American Coin that is James Thurber."

He uses material that Thurber included himself in, then turns storyteller, holding audiences as only this veteran actor can.

"Thurber" is a rare and memorable evening which reintroduces the writings and drawings of the satirist-illustrator who is best remembered for his articles and cartoons in New Yorker magazine.

Tickets for the performance can be purchased at any Ticketron outlet or from the box office at the East County Performing Arts Center, 210 East Main st. Cost is $4.

Contractors Needed To Replace Watershed

More heavy equipment contractors are needed to handle the emergency watershed protection work currently underway in storm damaged areas of Southern California.

Contracts, to be issued during the next seven months, will involve such work as debris removal and repair flood control structures.

The work is being coordinated by the Soil Conservation Service and interested contractors should contact the Contracting Officer, 312 N. Spring st., Room 511, Los Angeles, to inquire.

The phone number for the Los Angeles based Service is (213) 688-6626.

Medico Fees Up Less in Calif.

Last year physicians' fees increased less in California than they did nationwide, and less than the Consumer Price Index as well.

That good news is reported in California Medical Assn.'s current Socioeconomic Report. For 1977, the increases were 6.2 percent for physicians' fees in California, 9.2 percent for physicians' fees nationally and 6.8 percent for the national Consumer Price Index.

For the second half of 1977, the increases were 2.8 percent for California physicians' fees, 3.8 percent for MD fees nationwide, 2.4 percent for the CPI.

The CMA report notes that the California and national figures are only approximately comparable—since state figures are compiled by CMA's Bureau of Research and national figures by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics—but says that although they "are not directly comparable, the disparity between them nevertheless suggests that the rate of increase in California continues to be lower than elsewhere."

Extend Routes PSA Plea

Pacific Southwest Airlines (PSA) has filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board for routes to 7 Mexican cities.

Mazatlan, Puerto Vallarta, Manzanillo, Zijuatenejo, Loreto, La Paz and San Jose del Calbo have been outlined during the recent signing of a treaty between Mexico and the USA as tourist places in need of improved air service.

GI Bill Use Limited

A recent Supreme Court decision upholding Congress' right to bar the use of GI Bill benefits funds for certain education courses, does not apply to veterans already enrolled in such courses, a Veteran Administration spokesman said.

Under the ruling, veterans are only allowed to take courses that have been in existence for at least 2 years and in which less than 85 per cent of the veterans were enrolled.

The court's decision confirmed Congress' right to weed out courses that could not attract students other than those receiving GI benefits, and is designed to prevent "charlatans from grabbing the veteran's education money."

SD Beef Price Jump Due to Economics Law

Carnivorous human beings have some bad news coming their way from the California Beef Council.

The Council reports San Diego beef prices are jumping to new heights.

For example, ground beef was priced at 54 cents per pound on April 14, 1977. The same pound of ground beef cost 29 cents more one year later.

Round steaks went from $1.88 per pound to $2.30 while round and sirloin steaks jumped 48 cents and 28 cents respectively.

The reasons for the increases in the price of beef has been attributed to the law of supply and demand.

Alcohol Favored Over Cigarettes During National Family Week

LOS ANGELES—The California Council on Alcohol Problems, after several double-takes, finally decided to propose that Californians give up alcohol rather than cigarettes during National Family Week.

The week has been set for May 7 through 14.

The Council first decided to ask Californians to give up smoking for one day during the week but decided that may lead to some alcohol.

The Reverend Bergen Bird-sall, executive director of the Council, said there was a critical element of timing.

"We probably should call for a Drink Free Week to precede non-smoking day," the Reverend said, "because abstention from smoking might drive some people to drink."

The idea behind both plans is to focus attention on the results of alcohol use on family life, highway safety, worker productivity, and child abuse.

What You Should Know

About Your Health

Bad Breath

Almost everyone occasionally has a lurking suspicion they are offending others because of bad breath (halitosis).

Advertisers for years have taken advantage of this with a barrage of advertising for mouth washes, breath sweeteners and toothpastes.

Bad breath is a common problem, but it cannot really be dealt with on anything but a temporary basis until the underlying cause has been identified—and that may not be easy to do, since it could be caused by infection in the lungs, liver, or digestive tract.

Basic facts about bad breath include the following:

- "Breath awareness" has been actively promoted by commercial interests. Many persons who suspect that their breaths "offend" have perfectly normal breath odors.

- No commercial product, no matter how aggressively and dramatically promoted, will cure bad breath. The most you can expect from a mouth wash is it will make you feel more fastidious for a short period of time and it may mask temporarily your unpleasant breath.

- Some types of bad breath are self-limiting. If the odor is caused by alcohol, tobacco, garlic or onion, for example, and will disappear in time.

- A dry mouth and throat are likely to be foul-smelling. The normal flow of saliva bathes and lubricates the inside of the mouth. Without this flow, a stagnant condition develops which results in bad breath.

There are some countermeasures for this condition. For example, do not breathe through your mouth; do what you can to combat feelings of tension, which tend to stop the flow of saliva; drink plenty of fluids; chew on a stick of gum or suck a piece of hard candy to stimulate the flow of saliva.

Not all instances of bad breath are so simply dealt with because many of them are caused by conditions which themselves must be treated before the bad breath disappears.

Infections tend to generate foul odors. Even with daily brushing, you may not be able to get at pockets of infection around the roots of your teeth. These call for treatment by your dentist who can also determine whether there are any other disease conditions in your teeth or gums which might contribute to bad breath.

Your problem possibly might have its origin in a low-grade infection. The air flowing through the nose or back of the throat might pick up odors from a sinus infection. Similarly, infected tonsils will create bad-breath problems.

A number of other physical problems might contribute to bad breath. Remember that your blood circulates through your lungs, leaving evidence of many chemical abnormalities caused by disease.

Every time you empty your lungs in an exhalation, some of this evidence contaminates your breath. Thus, bad breath may be traced to a lung condition, to diabetes, to digestive abnormalities, or to liver disease — among other possible causes.

The search for the cause of bad breath may be a prolonged one, but what you are looking for is more than just the source of some social discomfort. You are seeking something that may require medical or dental treatment. Don't delay that search because you have been lulled into expecting that a new, more potent, more flavorful mouth wash will solve your problem.

Cow Chips To Air In S. Cal Expo's June 28 Contest

Cow chip chackers will again have an opportunity to gain fame and world-wide recognition at Southern California Exposition's second annual Cow Chip Throwing contest June 28.

Competition is for both men and women 16 years of age and over. Trophies and ribbons will be awarded the winners of the 11 a.m. contest.

The field is limited and entries close June 15, said Harry Hofmann, director of special events for Expo.

YOU AND YOUR PET

By Robert L. Stear, D.V.M.

First Aid for Pets

Cats and dogs instinctively treat their own cuts and scratches by licking them clean.

But a little extra first aid from the pet owner is still needed to prevent unsightly scars and infections.

To properly clean the wound, flush it with warm water or peroxide to remove splinters and other debris.

If you use a disinfectant, choose one that is not a phenol derivative (these compounds are especially toxic to cats).

The package label will tell you if the product contains phenol.

Once the wound is clean, there's no need for a bandage unless the bleeding is persistent. If the bleeding does continue — injuries to the foot pads and ears will bleed the most since these areas are filled with numerous blood vessels — apply pressure with a clean cloth held over the wound.

After the clot forms you can have your veterinarian decide whether stitches are needed.

Bleeding noses and paws commonly result from a pet's attempt to retrieve a discarded food can. Prevention is easier than treatment, so push empty tins deep into your kitchen wastebasket and keep trash cans tightly covered outside.

If you have a household accident, keep all pets confined until the last scrap of glass has been picked up.

Bites are more trouble than cuts since they usually create more than one wound.

Dog bites may produce as many as four separate tooth marks that can be as much as three inches apart.

These bites also damage tissue several inches from the actual tooth mark when the skin is torn loose from underlying muscles. In such cases, your veterinarian will flush the opening and bind it. Healing usually takes a few days.

Obviously cat bites make less of an "impression" than dog bites.

But they are no less dangerous. Cats inflict deep punctures that close up rapidly and trap infection-causing bacterial under the skin.

A neglected cat bite may become an abscess (a pocket of infection under the skin) and will need to be drained.

Your veterinarian may use antibiotics to control the bacterial infections associated with puncture wounds.

Having a young male cat neutered will lessen its tendencies to roam and fight, and thus help prevent bite wounds.

If a wound won't heal because your pet irritates it, you may have to use an Elizabethan collar — a large circle of heavy cardboard or other stiff material that fits over the pet's head and prevents it from turning and reaching the injury.

If the pet removes bandages with repeated scratching, you can wrap the foot on that side with cotton batting and gauze until the wound heals.

Pets in pain may instinctively bite anyone trying to administer aid, especially if the antiseptic stings or if the wound is aggravated by movement.

So even if your pet is normally good-natured, it is wise to apply some sort of mouth tie or muzzle before treating a sore spot.

Sun Is Cancer Risk

Booklet Gives Details

Suntan-lovers exposing themselves to too much sun might run a risk of getting skin cancer, the Food and Drug Administration warns.

Skin cancer is caused by extensive exposure to the ultraviolet radiation from the sun and the most common form of cancer. It can be treated successfully in a number of ways provided skin changes are reported to the physician in time.

"Sunbathing and Skin Cancer", a FDA publication, explains the disease and its symptoms. A free copy is available from the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 582 F, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Nazi March Provocation

The planned march of members of the American Nazi Party through the Chicago suburb of Skokie, the residence of several thousand Jewish survivors of concentration camps, constitutes an act of provocation, U. S. Senator S. I. Hayakawa (R-Calif.) said.

The issue, Hayakawa said, does not involve freedom of speech. He grants the Nazi party the right to publicize under the First Amendment, but considers the planned march through Skokie an act of clear and present danger, which would create a disturbance and not communicate ideas.

VFW Poppy Days

Dear Editor:

Poppy Days comes May 19-20. Some people in Lemon Grove and Spring Valley are not aware of what the VFW Buddy Poppy Program is about.

Thanks for using the following material.

Happy Blake.

"It was April, 1915. A battle-weary Canadian soldier viewed the final resting place of thousands of young men who had fallen in the second Battle of Ypres in Belgium.

"Despondently he contemplated the rows of hastily dug graves—each marked on a lonely white cross.

"In a sudden revelation, he heard the singing of larks in the sky, and amid the graves he saw gay little patches of red—wild poppies, struggling through the battle-torn soil and through the clay mounds of the graves to bring their message of life among death.

"Inspired, Col. John McCrae sat down and penned the three short verses of his famous poem, "In Flanders Fields."

"Published in Punch Magazine a few months later, the poem brought a message of confidence to millions of people in the dark hours of World War I and established the Flanders Poppy as the symbol of faith and hope in a war-torn world.

"Although Col. McCrae never lived to see the end of World War I, his poem has survived in print and in the minds and hearts of generations to whom his personal battle was mere history. The Poppies which provided his inspiration still bloom in Flanders Fields; but their message of hope has become reality through the Veterans of Foreign Wars BUDDY POPPY.

"In Flanders Fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely
singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

"We are the dead, short days ago
We lived, felt dawn,
saw sunsets glow,
Loved and were loved and now we lie
In Flanders Fields.

"Take up our quarrel with the foe
To you, from failing hands we throw
The torch, be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us,
who die
We shall not sleep,
though poppies grow
In Flanders Fields.

"More than 13 million people each year purchase and wear a V.F.W. BUDDY POPPY to renew their pledge to Col. McCrae's fallen soldier.

"Since the first nationwide sale was conducted in 1922, nearly half a billion BUDDY POPPIES have been distributed and proudly worn by concerned Americans.

"The V.F.W. BUDDY POPPY is made by patients in veterans' hospitals throughout the United States.

"The work provides needed therapy for hands and minds crippled by the ravages of war, and the pay earned provides a few simple luxuries to ease the boredom of hospital life.

"In keeping with its pledge to "Honor the Dead by Helping the Living," the sale is conducted exclusively by volunteers, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars dedicate the profits to the aid and assistance of disabled and needy servicemen and veterans, and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans."

Dear Editor:
Just a quick note to say "Thank You" for your participation in the Spring Valley Chamber of Commerce quarterly meeting on the Jarvis/Gann-Behr Bill debate.

It was our pleasure to have you join us, and take the time from your busy schedule. We hope you will be free to join us again.

Cordially,

PUC Wants To Know Who Has Unlisted Telephones

Uniform rules for disclosure of non-published telephone numbers, credit information, and records of long-distance phone calls have been ordered by the California Public Utilities Commission for the state's five major telephone companies.

Pacific, General, and Continental are to specify which government agencies may be given unpublished phone numbers and what procedures must be followed for obtaining them.

Specifically, unpublished numbers are to be provided to the following agencies only: city fire and police; county fire, sheriff, and district attorney offices; state Highway Patrol and police, the Organized Crime and Criminal Intelligence Branch, the Enforcement and Investigation Branch of the Justice Department, the Food and Drug Section of the Department of Health, the Arson Investigation Unit of the Department of Forestry, and the Wildlife Protection Board of the Department of Fish and Game; federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms, Drug Enforcement Administration, Federal Bureau of Investigation, United States Attorney, United States Marshal, Secret Service, and U. S. Postal Inspection Service.

Requests for nonpublished numbers must be in writing except in emergencies, when the agency may request a number by telephone, followed by a written confirmation within five days.

The phone companies may not give the information directly to the caller, but must call the agency back to verify that the request is from a properly designated representative of a legitimate agency.

Release of credit information and long-distance records will only be obtained by legal process, including search warrants, subpoenas, summons, and court orders.

The only exceptions are that information may be given to the phone company's own collection agency or another telephone company and that the FBI may obtain long-distance records when the U. S. Attorney General has indicated in writing that national security is involved.

Rival Phone Company Charges PacTel with $21 Million Rate Hike

If Pacific Telephone's demands for its biggest rate increase ever are approved the annual charges to the 1,272,125 home and business telephone users in San Diego County will soar by more than $21 million, a business rival phone company has charged.

"The proposed increase, which Pacific Telephone says is necessary so that it may replace outdated equipment, would cost Californians $471 million more a year," said E. M. Buttner, president of the California Interconnect Association (CIA).

"It is unthinkable that consumers here should be forced to pay millions more annually, especially when it appears that a huge chunk of that increase would go to support a campaign by Pacific Telephone and its allies to attack the consumers' vital interest," he added.

In November Buttner reported that Pacific Telephone may be overcharging San Diego County phone users over $22 million a year to subsidize a price war that seeks to stamp out its small competitors.

The charge was based on a report from the Federal Communications Commission that American Telephone and Telegraph, which owns 89.8 percent of Pacific Telephone, may be overcharging residential customers and others relying on basic telephone service by as much as $2.25 billion a year nationally.

This would amount to an overcharge of about $239 million on Pacific's 13,442,539 telephones in the state.

At the time Buttner said "the sum represents tremendous losses the Bell System has opted to take in the competitive field, knowing they can be made up through higher rates for home and other customers who have no choice except to pay or go without service." He called for state officials to stop the practice.

Fed Contracts Awarded in SD

WASHINGTON — U.S. Rep. Bob Wilson (R-San Diego) announced that the following Government contracts were awarded to San Diego area interests during the period of March 27 through April 7.

$1,599,999 from the Navy to Zinser Furby, Inc., for the extension of a berthing pier at the Naval Submarine Support Facility, San Diego.

$2,798,549 from the Army to General Dynamics Corporation's Electronics Division for two advanced development models of the interim standoff target acquisition system.

$1,075,735 from the Navy to the Validity Corporation to furnish development and evaluation of procedural and technical documents for the test and evaluation of the operability and effectiveness of specified ships systems and equipment as are assigned under the total test program for active fleet ships.

ent, the North American Telephone Association (NATA), represent themajor manufacturers and suppliers of terminal equipment that competes with Bell-produced products.

The market primarily involves switchboard and telephone systems for businesses, hospitals, government and motels and hotels.

Pacific Telephone has said that it will ask the California Public Utilities Commission this spring to raise the basic residential rate to $7 per month.

Additional charges for new telephone connections would range from $2 to $16 if the increase is approved, while surcharges of 50 cents and $1.50, respectively, would be imposed on operator-assisted calls and person-to-person calls, regardless of distance. The Commission is expected to act on this request in 1979.

Among those joining CIA and NATA in opposing Pacific Telephone's proposed rate increase are Toward Utility Rate Normalization (TURN) and William Bennett, member of the State Board of Equalization and former PUC president.

Consumer advocate Sylvia Siegel of TURN called the proposed rate hike "the most colossal nerve of any utility I've ever seen." Bennett termed it "unconscionable, arrogant and all of the worst things within the phrase 'the public be damned'."

"A critical examination of Pacific would show that there ought to be a reduction of rate," Bennet said. "Its earnings increase each and every quarter."

State Housing Starts up 15%

New housing starts in California increased in February to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 228,000 units, Bank of America reported.

This rate was up 15.2 percent from the revised January rate of 198,000 starts, but down 26 percent from February of 1977.

The above-normal rainfall in the state during the past few months, bank economists said, tended to hold residential construction below normal seasonal patterns. Some improvement in the rate of new starts is expected in the next few months, they added.

State Releases New Student Conduct Booklet

SACRAMENTO — A guide clarifying rules of student conduct in California schools has been issued by the State Department of Education and the State Board of Education.

Topics range from free speech rights of students publishing underground school newspapers to the legal responsibility of students to comply with rules and to obey teachers.

The handbook describes many recent changes. For example, legal decisions have swept away the restrictions some school districts imposed in the past against attendance by married students or pregnant women.

Special programs for pregnant students may still be operated, but attendance in them must be truly optional.

On the controversial subject of dress and grooming codes for students, both state and federal courts have upheld the right of school boards to adopt and enforce them. But the codes must not be vague; they must have a reasonable relationship to the educational process.

Since students must conform to the dress and hair-length standards, they should have a role in setting them, the Department's guidebook says.

On the issue of independent student newspapers, the courts have restricted a school's right to censor, Riles points out. Schools may not prohibit circulation of such papers within the school unless they are a direct cause of disruption or contain libelous or obscene material.

School authorities, however, may require that they see the publication before it is circulated.

They also may discipline a student who incites others to violate the law or school regulations or who disrupts school operations.

On the general issue of discipline, federal and state court decisions over the past decade have broadened student rights, the handbook says.

They have established that students are entitled to due process of law and, in California, that education is a fundamental right.

Nevertheless, schools retain authority to make and enforce the rules required for their operation.

The state Education Code still provides that students may be expelled for a broad range of offenses, from stealing or using drugs to habitual profanity or smoking outside designated areas.

Generally, a student may not be suspended or expelled unless other means of correction have failed to produce proper conduct.

The guide lists rules on the sometimes controversial relationship of policy and schools. Law enforcement officials cannot permit a school to be a "sanctuary," thereby preventing apprehension of serious violators.

But the state attorney general has ruled that policy should notify school officials and parents whenever possible before questioning or arresting a student.

The handbook notes that searches by school officials must be within the scope of the particular officials' duties and must be based on reasonable cause.

The handbook adds that the California Education Code now provides that females must be given the same opportunity as males to participate in athletics and "to compete with other females in individual and team sports."

The handbook also warns that student groups supporting athletics should review their activities to make sure they are legal. For instance, if they hold rallies for boys' sports, they should do the same for girls.

The handbook notes that schools no longer restrict shop classes to boys, or homemaking classes to girls.

A less well known rule says any school board operating a high school must add a non-voting student member to the board of 10 percent of the students petition for it.

Copies of the "Students' Rights and Responsibilities Handbook" are available for $1.50 each, plus 6 percent sales tax for California residents, from Publications Sales, California State Department of Education, P.O. Box 271, Sacramento, CA 95802.

Bob Cozens Joins S.D. Construction Industry Federation

Robert C. (Bob) Cozens, former director of the state Department of Motor Vehicles and also a former San Diego County supervisor, has been appointed legislative director of the San Diego Construction Industry Federation.

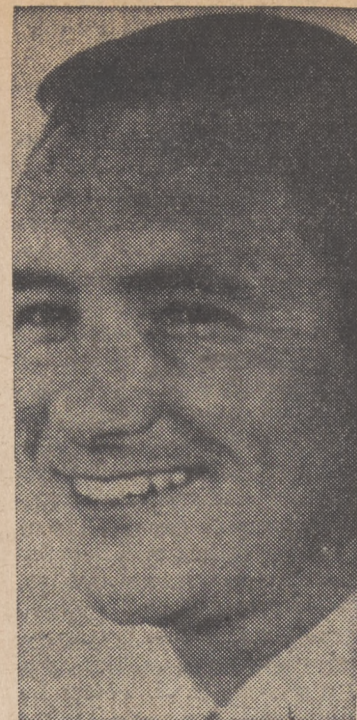

Ray Ehly, Federation chairman, announced that Cozens will head a staff of 3 other legislative representatives who will devote their efforts to working on industry problems and concerns in legislative and governmental affairs.

The Federation, recently incorporated as a non-profit organization, plans soon to open headquarters at a Mission Valley building where it will share office space, research and library facilities with the San Diego Construction Industry Advancement Fund (CIAF), which provides most of the financing for Federation activities.

Under the new program, Stanley C. Scott will be the administrative head of the combined staffs. He is also executive director of CIAF.

Cozens, a native of San Diego, has had a long career in governmental and civic work as well as in private industry. He is a licensed excavating and grading contractor, a licensed general and life insurance agent and now holds a real estate sales license.

Efforts are being made to have the Battleship New Jersey, now in mothballs at Bremerton, Wash., brought home to New Jersey.

SEEKS SEAT — Former S.D. Councilman Mike Schaefer, an attorney, is to be listed on the primary ballot for Board of Equalization, Dist. 2, by order of Superior Court. Schaefer had his name added after technicalities almost kept him, and the name of Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles off the ballot. Schaefer turned in 28 signatures and his $380 filing fee for the $38,000 a year post but indicated that officials said that only 20 names were required. Superior Court Judge Alfred Lord ruled that Schaefer had "substantially complied" with the requirements. He became opponent to Iris Sankey, who was appointed to the post following the death of long-time member John Lynch. Schaefer lists himself as the "6 Billion Dollar Man" the amount of money the Board dispenses.

SDG&E Asks PUC For New Gas Hike

San Diego Gas and Electric Company has asked the California Public Utilities Commission to allow the gas company to increase their rates by $12,456,000 to offset prices from Southern California Gas Company.

Southern Cal Gas is the direct supplier to SDG&E.

If the increases are approved, rates to lifeline residential customers would jump by 2.16 cents per therm under the lifeline allowance and to lifeline limit.
